

Hosted IQ

Hosted Production Mail Management System

Cloud-based Software Suite for Mailers of All Sizes

For years, leading companies in the production mail market have implemented Automated Document Factory (ADF) solutions in order to bring control, management and accountability to their operations. However the sizable investments necessary to acquire the software, infrastructure and personnel has been a barrier to entry for many. For these companies the only options have been to forgo ADF capabilities that their competitors have implemented, or to undertake developing their own solution, which can bring hidden costs and support issues.

Bell and Howell brings you all the benefits of an Automated Document Factory in a single, secure, software-as-a-service environment without incurring the upfront costs and the ongoing support of a traditional ADF.

Hosted IQ™ is architected to accommodate requirements ranging from mailpiece tracking to production and operational tracking, providing mailers of all sizes and budgets with a fully managed and secure ADF solution. The service provides all the capabilities you need to manage document integrity and compliance reporting, automate reprint processing, and track the productivity of operators and equipment.

Solutions

As with all of our solutions, our professional service experts are available to assist in all aspects of your Hosted IQ solution. They bring industry expertise and the skills necessary to make your solution successful. Find out how we can help you:

- Increase document integrity
- Enhance compliance reporting
- Automate reprint processing
- Improve operator and equipment productivity
- Optimize your environment and workflow

REDUCE OPERATIONAL COSTS

You can lower your cost per mailpiece by leveraging Bell and Howell's "best-in-class ADF tools. As a subscription-based, fully managed solution, Hosted IQ can accommodate most budgets with the added benefit of moving your solution costs from a capital expenditure to an operational expenditure. In addition, a Hosted IQ solution reduces IT infrastructure so you can move non-core IT activities to an outsourced model.
